

Property of MOUNTAINFERN ENTERTAINMENT LIMITED

TRANSFER

(SYNOPSIS)

Brandon Oreily:
Age: 21 years old.
Height: 6'2''.
Hair color: Dark Brown.
Nationality: Australian.

Michael: Oreily:
Age: 12 years old.
Height: 4'5''.
Hair color: Dark Brown.
Nationality: Australian.

Brandon and Michael are traveling home to visit their in hospital cared mother, Sidney Carswell, who has been diagnosed with breast cancer. Both Brandon and Michael's parents have been divorced for more than 7 years now. Their father Marcus Oreily, lives in Los Angeles, California, USA and is a television producer. Brandon is following in his father's footsteps on lines of work, and Michael has always since he was young, been passionate for yo-yo's. His dream is to be a World Class yo-yo champion. The flights duration all together from Los Angeles to Sidney, Australia is a little more than 24 hours including the stop over in Malaysia. Brandon and Michael have arrived in Malaysia International Airport for their temporary refueling stop over and are currently in the airport.

Jennifer Rossberry:
Age: 19 years old.
Height: 5'9".
Hair color: Brown.
Nationality: American.

From the high wealth sector in the East Coast of Boston, USA, Jennifer, or Jenny for short is traveling to Australia for Eco and environment studies. The flights duration all together from Boston to Sidney, Australia is a little more than 24 hours including the stop over in Malaysia. Jenny's father Murray Rossberry owns a successful chain of well known supermarkets throughout the United States known nationally as "Rossberry's Markets". A organic food and bio reserve for imported goods from international foods. Jenny's mother, Cathy Rossberry lives with her husband and assists with the family company. What the group, and especially Michael Oreily (Brandon Oreily's younger brother) don't know is that Jenny has a talent in yo-yoing and their history and mechanics. It's been a childhood passion for years that still has a place in her heart, and later Jenny will warm up to the group through sharing this internal passion with Michael. Jenny has arrived in Malaysia International Airport for their temporary refueling stop over and is currently in the airport.

Nyles Fishman:

Age: 17 years old.

Height: 5'5".

Hair color: Brown.

Nationality: American

Peter Barkley:

Age: 17 years old.

Height: 5'6".

Hair color: Brown.

Nationality: Canadian

Miranda Stensington:

Age: 16 years old.

Height: 5'4".

Hair color: Dirty Blonde.

Nationality: American (Alaska)

These three teenagers are on route to Sydney, Australia as the three chosen exchange students for their last year of high school they attend in Canada. Nyles originally from the East Coast of New York City, USA. moved to Canada just a few years ago. His father Robert Fishman runs a camera company for television news and broadcast shows. Nyles's mother overlooks the factory where they build and equip their company's equipment. Nyles has a passion for guns and firepower tactics, and for a nerd stature he displays, it's quiet the unusual mix. His father and mother are completely against the fact of his self passion for weaponry. Peter Barkley comes from Vancouver, Canada where the three's high school is located. Peter lives with his Grandparents, for his parents passed away in a tragic car accident on way to Grouse Mountain for a ski trip. Peter decided not to go and instead spend time with his Grandparents and destiny spoke for it's self. Miranda was born in Anchorage, Alaska, USA and grew up in the below zero environment for most of her life, until she moved from Alaska to Vancouver Canada 5 years ago where she met both Peter and Nyles. Miranda's father has been a Geologist for over twenty years now, keeping track of the pressure caused from the salt mines located nearby the coast line, her mother works for the U.S. Alaskan Shoreline preserve watch, and flies small 6 seater sea planes to fly across and perimeter watch the Alaskan shore lines. Miranda has a had a crush on Peter ever since first meeting him in school, but has never had the heart to tell him, hoping that the answer isn't what she doesn't want to hear in return. All three have flown from Vancouver to now arrive here in Malaysia for the refueling stop over. The flights duration all together from Vancouver to Sidney, Australia is a little more than 24 hours including the stop over in Malaysia. All three have arrived in Malaysia International Airport and are currently in the airport.

Quinton Barclay:

Age: 16 years old.

Height: 5'6".

Hair color: Light Brown.

Nationality: Irish.

A heavy set boy from Dublin, Ireland has been sent by his parents to a lose weight camp in Australia where rigorous training and hikes into the secure wilderness will be up taken at 100% no mercy, led by well trained and in fit instructors built to last in the vast Outback. Quinton's father and mother run a veterinary office in Dublin. The flights duration all together from Dublin to Sidney, Australia is a little more than 24 hours including the stop over in Malaysia. Quinton has arrived in Malaysia International Airport and is currently in the airport.

Now that we know who these seven characters are and their status, the destined journey will begin.

Each character arrives at their own time in momentum of calculating time for their transfer flight to Australia. Not knowing that each of them are booked on the same flight.

Start the dominos!!

Due to a chain linked reaction of events, from the yo-yo store, to one of the airport's many candy bar machine, to the food court, the toilets, the information desk, all seven characters will meet by destiny to miss their flight and shockingly remain in Malaysia with no contact info of exactly where to go. The only one who has the possibility to change their ticket is Jenny, due to her wealth status and her class of voyage in Business Class. As for the others, they are left to contact their sources and do their best to recatch the next flight, but they each don't have the proper budget with them to pay for a hotel, and what about their luggage! Including Jenny, who then begins to panic as well. Led by Brandon, the eldest, the crew of unidentified members to one another maneuver unsure of the fact of who each of them are. The only relation to one another to those who don't know one another are their flight tickets and number on board the same aircraft. The now formed group of seven travel their way through the airport doing their best to catch their luggage in time. They manage to catch only a few pieces. Jenny's, Nyles's, and Quinton's luggage are retrieved. As for the others, it's too late. The plane is on the tarmac with theirs. At least they all carry their essentials on hand within their carry on pieces. Then to find out that the only ones carrying a mobile phone are Brandon, Jenny, and Nyles. Everyone else has either left it in their luggage or just didn't bring one, or the battery could be down and their charger has been left in the luggage, because no one would actually leave their mobile phone charger at home unless they had a reason to do so. When the customs security check open Quinton's luggage, they find items of illegal transport without any authorization, such as a complete plastic wrapped ham, a few market bought and sealed cheeses, packaged bread, and some spices to complete a proper sandwich the way he likes it. It seems that Quinton had been doing a little last minute packing, secretly, for it's against his new diet regime eat anything under the items and similar in fat intake and sugar levels of what he had brought with him, and not knowing the consequences of travel since he never really voyaged out of his country that much. The security not knowing English that well, cause a interrogation and check the food, the group all look at Quinton and see that the other baggage has been cleared and authorized to be taken. They now have access to leave the security check, but will have to leave a poor kid behind, who's first time it is to travel across the globe to one of the farthest places he can ever think of. Brandon gives in and decides to stay with Quinton, keeping the frightened lad calm. Jenny selfishly and carelessly departs, but later finds out that her ticket is non refundable to the fact that it was a last minute bought flight. Back with the group at the security baggage check, Brandon has come to understand Quinton's voyage reasons and the goal of fat camp including a tears covered face of how his problem of not able to stop eating is a heavy one and that he really wants to stop, but doesn't know how. The security are strict and are not allowing access to leave, in fact are approaching Quinton to bind him and put him into the temporary holding cell for interrogation of his packed goods. Quinton begins to panic and states that he's claustrophobic in small spaces, Brandon defending him kindly with the security, the others as well remaining their since they have all missed the flight together. Suddenly Brandon pushes the security guard and instructs for them all to leave. All depart and make their way for the exit of the airport and run into a furious Jenny along the way, who notices them call to her to join them if she doesn't want trouble, she ignores them, then notices the security detail following shortly who as well notice her and directly judge that since she was accompanying the group earlier, she was part of their detail. She turns and departs with her heavy luggage in pursuit of the others. They all eventually escape the airport, arriving into the humid air of Malaysia. They take the nearest cab and ask for the city where they will probably be able to find a silent place to regather themselves and catch the next flight to Australia. The confusion is wild and the system is unorganized, complaint is of every other word, but they manage.

Finally arriving into the city, the group under shocking panic search for assistance, but everyone doesn't even speak a third of the English language.

And that's when it happens.

During the intense luggage carrying crossing through a green lit intersection, the group are suddenly crossed by a small black pig, who is nearly hit by a passing small cargo truck. The pig lands into Quinton's lap into safety. Then suddenly, from behind another car comes running a large Saint Bernard, heading it's way for the pig, another car comes screeching to halt, then nearly hit by another car, a old 1960's US military jeep.

Meet Leroy.

Leroy Jacobson:

Age: 52 years old.

Height: 5'11".

Hair color: Dark Red.

Nationality: Unkown.

A 50 year old, co green peace member, keeping watch in the regions of South East Asia on guard for non legal animal, ivory, and such imports. Basically a bounty hunter with a good notion of reason, paid in return to survive. Leroy is a laid back vegetarian cook and easy going figure, but shifts into focused non bullshit gear when he takes at his work, and carries a knack and admiration for machinery and engineering. The jeep he drives has been found in parts and rebuilt by him with a freshly new installed engine, as well aid to his work. Leroy has a phrase he always likes to use for himself and others he cares about around him, and that is:

"Someday it will our turn to glide free the way it should bzzbeeee"..followed by that one smile he delivers.

He exits his jeep blocking the traffic, calling out to his dog.

Panda (Dog):

Age: 7 years old (Dog Years: 14).

Breed: Saint Bernard.

Panda is Leroy's dog since a puppy and obeys his master with the up most respect as a best friend and right hand partner. No one can sit in the front seat of Leroy's jeep except for Panda, unless Leroy tells him so. Panda has his own cross clip seat belt so that he can sit securely for bumpy terrain.

The street is stressed with sudden traffic. There is no time to waste. Panda jumps back into the jeep groaning at the pig, who shakes vibrantly in Quinton's arms. Quinton doesn't know what to do with the pig, but something within him doesn't inspire him to let it go. The two will come to grow with one another now. Leroy heads into his jeep and prepares departure, but since he's suddenly the only English speaking human here, Brandon of the group ask him for help and questions of where they can go. Leroy has no time and the traffic is growing worse. The police have arrived to demand a immediate de blockage. Leroy tells the group of seven to quickly get in his car and come with him and he will drive them to the center of the city and see what he can do to help these to him, "Tourists". The group jump in the back pick up like jeep, causing it's weight to tilt back due to the slightly over packed passenger capacity. Thanks that the jeep carries a thicker range of tires, brakes, and newly installed suspension.

The true adventure begins.

Eventually, the group don't have enough of a budget to shelter themselves, so Leroy comes to the kind decision of assisting the group shelter until they can reach contact of their sources.

Now Leroy's house, isn't that much of the most solidly built homes, but has a slightly entertaining view of the borderline to the outskirts of both the sea and large river entrance. His home is equipped with manual and mobile technology for his work, such as binoculars, a satellite dish for International television networks, as well mainly used for his work, and the for the enjoyment of Cartoon Network in English every evening after 5:00PM.

The group, still uncomfortable with themselves, especially those who are traveling alone, but eventually begin to grow along one another and build a everlasting friendship, with both one another and Leroy.

Now Leroy has a neighbor, Tom Hart, a old friend of his in the same line of work, who carries a cool and intelligent atmosphere about him. Originally from Chicago, Illinois, Tom has known Leroy for more than twenty years now. His niece, Julie Hart has lives with him due to the bad history with her parents back in the US.. Julie has always admired her uncle and his line of work. Even if he knows it's too dangerous for her, Tom supports his niece's wishes and dreams much more than her family back home in the States, who have very ill disrupted and phycological mental problems, and were too tough on Julie as a child. It was a life not worth living for.

Tom Hart:

Age: 51 years old.

Height: 6'.

Hair Color: Light Brown.

Nationality: American.

Julie Hart:

Age: 17 years old.

Height: 5'6".

Hair color: Light Brown.

Nationality: American.

Later in the story, when Tom and Julie meet the group of seven travelers, Peter of the group, Nyles and Miranda, will come into a close relationship with Julie, and eventually not follow through for Miranda will see this and finally speak her heart to Peter that she has always loved him as both a best friend and partner. Julie will support Miranda and have Peter face the truth of how beautiful Miranda is as a person, and that it is more likely that it would work out for the two of them, rather than her and him. Peter's hope falls, but eventually is picked up by his now group of seven and especially Miranda, who will stand by him through all times of need.

A journey and a new evolution through each character's life will enhance their path through life.

Brandon will fall in love with Jenny, and will make it work out through decision between them both.

Michael will harness a new power through technique of yo-yoing learning from Jenny.

We know Peter's change from a close relationship with Julie, then moving back to Miranda.

Nyles will be able to share his passion for weaponry with Leroy when he and the group discover Leroy's hidden closet of armed instruments for his line of work. A day of target practice with both Leroy and Tom, and even Julie, who sports the tactical talent as well with weaponry, which will cause slight conflict with Peter who at the time will be attracted to Julie, and as well Nyles due to Julie's sportive and same interest appeal as Nyles.

Miranda knowing that her mother flies sea planes and nearly growing up on them sees Tom's sea plane and asks him if she can fly it with him. Tom allows and the two begin to share a close bond. Julie seeing this grows a little jealous, but in the end comes to know that Miranda has a love for Peter and is a wonderfully spirited person. Julie knows Peter likes her, but doesn't want to hurt who she now knows better, Miranda. Julie comes to her senses and explains Peter that she and him will not work out the way that had possibly felt it could.

Being the last alone, Quinton has found a new best friend in his life. The little black pig he now calls Hamlet and takes everywhere with him, shares a similar relationship with him in weight and appeal, yet one is a vegetarian and the other a omnivore. Now, Leroy being a vegetarian and cooks a talent in the kitchen will assist and teach Quinton how to eat properly, eventually losing a massive amount of weight and leading him to becoming the figure he now knows he can get to with his new best friend on his side.

Until one day..

The day the group is able to leave Malaysia and continue on their journey to Australia, but on this very same day, Leroy and Tom are called by radio contact from a well known source that we have always heard through Leroy's and Tom's special built in multi channel interference radio that connects directly with certain channels of other members on the same line of work within the region. A emergency job at the farthest river, near the deepest part of the jungle on the outskirts across the towering volcanic region that sets off a paramount view from the main city. A member from the South East Asian Shore Line Watch has been undercover on a large disguised barge entering with illegal artifacts of Ivory stolen jade, platinum, firearms as well as other under black market items. They will have to travel their by air with Tom's small 12 seater dark military green painted sea plane.

But this time it's different.

A shocking and brave choice has been made.

This time Leroy and Tom are not alone, for the powerful friendship that has been built between them and the group of seven, has caused the group to make a decision and assist Leroy and his goal that he has always spoke to the group about. To bring an end the best possible to illegal import of rare destroyed goods and animal slaughter traffic. To him, this means the entire world and it's beauty.

And they set off, on air route to the designated navigated point.

The adrenalin in the group of seven, is the highest you could ever experience within yourself, even for Julie, who has never accompanied her uncle on one of his job calls.

The mission is silent at first. The preparation. All that the group has learned on this incredible journey will now come in final play of both pure friendship and life's power for a mission of solid understanding.

Brandon accompanying Leroy and a now short shaved and trimmed Panda (Leroy's dog) for proper defense and offense maneuvers on foot as Tom, Julie, and Nyles, who has learned how to operate a sniper rifle with Leroy, doesn't use the weapon, but instead assists with diameter and distance measures for Tom. All three are cloaked under a net of false plants and branches (Tom and Leroy's professional equipment). Jenny, Quinton with Hamlet keeping watch with radio on the other side of the river, where they had to cross the rock emerged bank, which lines a small barracade. He too is covered low in a net of false plants and shrubbery. Peter, Miranda, and Michael are located on standby in the now hidden sea plane incase they will need to move it. Miranda is teaching Peter how to operate the sea plane.

Nobody wears red or any saturated color above the neutral, Grey.

Quinton radios that the barge has entered perimeter. Hamlet shaking near his side, feeling the tensity.

Leroy, Brandon, and Panda on standby. All three carrying bullet proof vests (Panda's custom made by Leroy) and armed with one hand gun and two rounds of proper ammunition. Leroy now focused, a completely different man that the group know him as. Due to this power and adrenaline rushing situation, Brandon of course listens to every word Leroy explains. Panda, being through this before, knows the drill and obeys his master's words at all times.

Tom, Nyles, and Julie covering by Sniper Rifle, Nyles reading directory distance with Julie.

Miranda and Peter at the ready, contact headset's on.

The first shot is fired. A distraction smoke grenade fired from Tom's silencer tipped sniper rifle. Too fast to judge where it had came from. The barge's crew shifts to alert and the overtaking is on.

It's a scene to never be forgotten by it's viewers. From the rollercoaster of differently harnessed and launched emotions to the grid lock of fear and real no excuse reality of a bullet actually flying overhead and missing you by inches. God is truly on our team's side. Everyone miraculously doing their part. Suddenly due to a incorrect flight of ammunition running straight into the barge's engine and gas sector of it's hull, leading to the barge catching on massive fire, but yet continues to move forward heading towards the stone barracade ahead and not in the proper navigation to move it's way slowly around it. Quinton, Jenny, and Hamlet needing to cross that barracade in avoidance of impossibly swimming across the rapid river's hard pull flow. The barge approaching closer and closer, catching speed with the river's heavy current. But there's no time, it's now or never. Jenny, Quinton holding Hamlet cross immediately, being tailed by the barge's run into the barricade causing a massive amount of heavy waves to send them both into the water.

Miranda, Peter, and Michael seeing this and on route to Tom, Julie, and Nyles, turns the sea plane around which is still on water and surf their way to Jenny, Quinton, who both hold Hamlet up the best they can, then reach him up and out of the water as the sea plane group approach. Peter at the plane's front entry hatch reaching his hand out.. .

Suddenly they lose grip of Hamlet, and at that moment, Quinton turns back around to swim for Hamlet, but it's no use, the current is too strong. Peter pulls a yelling Quinton out of the water, Jenny assists him up into teh sea plane, then decides to make a go for Hamlet, but is suddenly hit with a part from the barge's front hull that had smashed into the stone barricade, which brings her back into the pull of the river. Panda from on board the barge with Brandon and Leroy notice this, Leroy tells Brandon to go and get those in the water with the barge's last and only emergency boat. Brandon directly does so, Panda doesn't want to follow, but Leroy orders him to. Still, Panda gives a struggle not to leave his master in danger, but Leroy tells his dog with the emotion of how a best friend will always be there for you under any circumstances. Panda goes with Brandon who yells for him to come on. They descend onto the water and make their way for Jenny and Hamlet, which they arrive to and rescue just on the barricade's border line, where the barge's open in flames hull is beached up against the rocky blockade. Brandon holding Jenny's hand, who holds Hamlet small collar given to him by Leroy, which was Panda's collar when he was a puppy 7 years back. They turn around and head for the sea plane, arrive and climb up, except for Brandon, who turns around and heads back for the barge and their friend Leroy. Tom yelling out at Brandon not to go, that they will go all together, then can't wait any more, turns to Jenny and tells her to keep watch on the plane, Miranda knows how to fly it, and the group accompany one another and remain in the plane as both Brandon and Tom head out for the barge where Leroy is alone, battling off the cross fire with those still on board.

Tom and Brandon are on route to Leroy, they arrive and tell him to jump into the boat with them, then just as he does..

It hits!!

Leroy is shot, and falls in reach of both Brandon and Tom, who directly call over the group and the plane. Tom directly returns fire and takes the man who had shot Leroy down. Julie calling in and speaking the country's native tongue to the shore line contact, who will contact the local authorities. They all prepare take off.

"It was Leroy's dream to fly.."

Says a voice narrating over the look out of a window at the fast silent passing over and through the clouds high above the sea and land below.

"It was his dream to be out there.."

We see Brandon and Michael with their mother in Australia. Their character credits.

(Narration continues)

..The day it was his turn to glide free..

We see Jenny arriving at her new University in Australia, looking up at the sky, then entering the campus.

(Narration continues)

..the way it should bzzbeeee..

The narrator's voice and others giggle a melange of content and profound sadness.

We see Nyles, Peter, and Miranda all shaking hands and meeting their exchange student family in Australia. They all look at one another and move in to a new adventure.

(Narration continues)

..that's what he always use to say to us"

We see Quinton and Hamlet back in Dublin, Ireland in place of Australia surprising his parents with his sudden weight loss and new friend Hamlet, ready to learn and build up his family's animal services to a international level.

The narration continues as we move to now see our group of seven and Tom and Julie flying close above the open mountain range below until, the sea appears, and all together throwing Leroy's ashes into the sky above, to then shockingly strike a image you will only see once in a life time. The ashes form into that of a man's body for only a brief second, but to the group, it feels like a eternity.

THE END

WRITTEN BY KRISTOPHER VAN VARENBERG